The ultimate ~~test~~ measure of man is not where he stands in moment of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy.

It was the late 19th century, when a young barrister was thrown out of the railway coach for not having a registration certificate. This barrister was born in a well to do family, had the best education and a promising future ahead. In short access to all the comfort and luxuries.

But he decided to forgo all the above things and fight for the equal rights and justice for all, especially the Indians in South Africa.

This young man is none other than the father of our nation, 'Mahatma Gandhi', who rather than living a life of comfort chose to live his life for others. Living in hardship & advice. But a life that one wishes for to live.

As it ~~shows~~ shows his moral and values and inspires others to do so. Thus it rightly depicts his character of dedication, integrity and justice.

So from the above anecdote, it shows that when one faces some challenges, it really brings out the character of the person.

ANS. 4 As the experiences, decisions and ethical values that are internal becomes externally visible. It depicts the attitude that one possess.

FACING CHALLENGES AND CONTROVERSY - MOULDING OF MAN

As discussed above that the challenges and controversy that one faces acts as moulding factor of an individual's life. It develops one with new skills; techniques and stand with their values and mood when no one supports.

As Raimendra Nath Sargose had said to 'Ekla Chalo' to depicts that it is an individual who can bring change. As was seen in the case of Raja Lammohan Roy, who when given option to allow the continuation of practice of sati a relatively easier choice. He choose to fight against it leading to controversy and ostracization from the society. But he stood true to his values of courage, equality and truth to fight it.

But, sometimes the controversies and challenges can also be faced by institution and organisation.

And the steps or measure taken them can decide its future trajectory.

when in 1990s the Indian stock market suffered from scams like Harshad Mehta. It was SEBI who took the necessary steps to uphold the trust of people in it. It improved its transparency and accountability.

This in turn fostering growth of all its stakeholders.

so we have talked about how controversy and challenges contributed to growth and development of individual and an organisation. Now let us talk about how a nation can benefit from it.

The challenges bring out the nation's core values in front. It can vary from being hardworking and punctual. As in case of Japan, which led it to become fastest economy post Hiroshima - and Nagasaki. Or Resilience and perseverence in case of Bangladesh post its inception.

It shows that the values, principle ethics, vision and dreams becomes the oil in the wheel of the cart to overcome any challenges or controversy.

COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE : The termite
for a man

So now lets talk how comfort and convenience ~~are~~ all not the right measures to understand a man.

As they give a person a fall back mechanism, or a cushion.

And in some cases a chain that does not enable one to think beyond one's necessity.

When an individual is used to all the comfort that life gives, he will start getting attracted towards vices. As he will lose the ability to think on his toes, which is essential for self growth. It was seen in 6 Mahmud Shah during late mughal empire, his accustom to comfort led to downfall of the mighty empire.

Because he could not gauge the impending doom and adjust himself accordingly.

Similarly when there are no competition in market many companies become lethargic as they are getting their profit. But a single new innovation can cause it to kick the dust.

It was seen in case of NOKIA its lack of adoption of new technology and no investment in new innovation led it to become absolute:

So the above cases rightly depict that in time of comfort and convenience,
It is difficult to gauge a man as it may lead to lethargy, vice versa poor judgment or taking poor decision that prolong their status quo.
And in turn causes them to become absolute.

CAN COMFORT AND CONVIENCE - HELP IN MEASURING A MAN.

The above discussion talked about the negatives of comfort on a man's character. But can it be true in all the cases, as even with comfort can man take decision that show his values and morals. There have been cases when a man with the comfort of following the status quo and majority view choose to take the right decisions.

Like was the case of Maharaja of Baroda to stand for education of all or companies providing for the society even before the CSR was the norm. Like Jata's contribution towards countries scientific development through monetary contribution.

It has also led developed countries to provide relief and promoting development of other nation especially in ~~after~~ post colonial world. Because they thought that it was their moral obligation to do so.

And also apologies that the countries like CANADA, UK, FRANCE have extended over slavery. Shows their strong moral character and accepting their mistakes.

WHY TO MEASURE

Hence it is proved that ~~not~~ neither comfort nor challenges help in measuring a man but it is the character that one possess develops one's attitude.

Thus, the values, moral, experiences and ideals help one in adapting to any given situation and find a way out from darkness to light.

It allows the man to take the right steps which not only helps him, but the world in whole.

Because it is said that man does not take a decision but decisions make a man; Because it is his stand to whether choose comfort or challenge.

It allows one to come out of his comfort zone and adapt to new changes and evolve as ~~the~~ man because change is the only constant and test the mettle of an individual. It allows one to pass any hardship and emerge as victorious.

So it is important to keep updating and evolving to combat any difficulty that one faces because

THINKING IS A GAME, IT DOES NOT BEGIN UNLESS THERE IS AN OPPOSITE TEAM

There was a time a young man called Siddhartha. One evening that man went for a walk in his neighbourhood. And he encountered a old man who was suffering from pain and was ~~on~~ on the steps of death.

On seeing this man, Siddhartha who enjoyed all the luxuries in life for the first time saw suffering of other. This suffering made him to ask question about life and made him think of challenges that one faces.

This was the reason of Siddhartha to leave his house in search of the truth and the journey that he Took to find the knowledge, converted Siddhanta to 'buddha'.

In the above paragraph we saw how the thinking by Buddha started when he faced with the opposition of pain also called 'dukkha' which led him to take the journey to find the cure to elevate the pain, which later came to be known as 'Nirvana', finding the highest truth.

Similarly thinking is the process to find the truth, to unlock secrets, stimulate the cognitive ability, making a human being to think and act beyond his capability, it enables him to act rationally, think critically.

But the ability is incomplete without an opposition because

It enables one to see beyond the given facts, bring out new views. And sometimes also the opposition act in the form of stereotypes, prejudices, biases and contraindication.

Thus both thinking requires to take into account of all possible outcomes like a game of tug and war where opposite ideas clash and try to come victorious.

I think, therefore I am

Thinking is essential for the survival of the human as it enables one to judge the options as well as to make a decisions.

where opposition could be external factor like society in case of women. to select a field or internal factor of attitude or aptitude. But the

The principle of Artificial Intelligence is also based on opposite ideas or data set that enables it to reduce false result and enable it to grow.

What happens when opposition prevails.

But not always opposition is all good. It might also lead to rigidity and not promote critical thinking.

It also enables only one set of thoughts to govern one thinking capability. It can lead to oppressive ideas to govern like it is seen in cases of terrorism where people lose their critical ability and are brainwashed.

It also leads to people thinking that what one is doing is right as was seen during the colonial time where Britishers justified their action by declaring it just under 'white man's burden'.

Hence it can be said that always having an opposition might not always be good, especially when it have access to all major resources and authority. As it will do more harm than any good.
