② Emission Reduction Certification
↳ when one developing country help in emission reduction of other developing country.

③ In this case, country doesn't ask for any credits, they just voluntarily help the other country.

Article 6 of the Paris climate change talks about the IPCC impact Assessment reports, NDC targets of country → they need to do it voluntarily and the Global stocktake by the Conference of Parties of the UNFCCC to look into the matter of the global Carbon emission improvements.

Significance of global Carbon Market in achieving Net zero (2050)

- ① It will help in keeping the overall carbon emission of the world under control.
- ② It is the core & way out to punish polluter's pay mechanism.
- ③ help the developing country in transitioning towards net-zero - India by 2070.

Climate change and rapid urbanization have intensified the impact and frequency of heat waves in India. Discuss. How can Heat Action Plans (HAPs) improve heatwave management in India?

(Answer in 250 words) 15 Marks

Heat waves are the conditions when the temperature over the plain is $\geq 40^{\circ}\text{C}$ and over the mountains is $\geq 30^{\circ}\text{C}$ in the Summer humid season.

Climate change and Rapid Urbanisation impacting and increasing heat waves in India by :-

- ① High pressure system creates Heat dome due to weakening of Jet streams, traps the heat.
- ② presence of high clouds → send back the heat → global warming.

- ③ Presence of concrete slabs
Creates the issue of heat waves
- ④ More people - more Carbon Dioxide → less afforestation → deepening the Heat wave.
- ⑤ Coastal areas experiencing the impact of the humid and more intense heat
- ⑥ More pollution, population, Urbanisation generates more pressure on the Mountaineous ecosystem → exacerbate the Heat wave.

Heat Action Plans → Managing
the heat waves:—

- ① Focus on Green buildings,
GRIHA, LEED certified buildings.

- ② Miyawaki System of forestry in the Urban areas.
- ③ Nagar Van scheme for Controlling the heat of the city.
- ④ Use of organic materials, geotextile on the roads, slabs for eco-friendly system.
- ⑤ Recirculatory Aquaculture system helps in reducing the heat waves.
- ⑥ Control over the urban expansion; green cooling system and focus on renewables.

Heat waves are the threat to the humans and the animals, it is therefore, need for HAP to cater to the SDG.
